WEAVING of TIME

In 1872 the first senior class graduated from high school in this county . . . that class was composed of two students. We have grown! One hundred years has come and gone.

History has changed . . . evolved

Think back — 100 years.

Every day — today as then — each student's interests and activities form the pattern of life that shapes a huge picture painted with all the colors of emotion and action.

It forms part of the weaving of time that makes life's TAPESTRY.

VICTOR FINDS HOOSIER GIRLS FRIENDLIER

It is not easy to leave home and family at 17 and live in an entirely strange atmosphere; especially when you are just beginning to speak a new language.

Victor Manuel Portillo, equipped with just one year of English, came to Delphi from El Salvador. He had graduated from a Public high school in Mexico in 1968 and was beginning his first year of engineering.

Victor has taken an active role in DCHS student activities and has participated in the wrestling and track program.

He has been a member of AFS Club which sponsored his year at DCHS. His home away from home has been with the Richard McLeland family.

1971-72 found Victor a member of the McLeland clan. Mark, a junior, Mike, a senior, and Steve, a sophomore, were Victor's North American brothers.

Hoosier food seems to agree with Victor as he gained 25 pounds.

TEAHOUSE OF THE AUGUST MOON BRINGS BIT

Brightly robed Geisha dancers, stalwart wrestlers, and the happy men and women of Tobiki Village gather before their teahouse.

"May the August Moon fill your cup" was the wish of the Tobiki villagers for Captain Fisby. Delicate craftsmanship handed down from father to son, beautiful dances and the significance of a chrysanthemum were all a part of this magic.

Fisby is ordered to build a Pentagon-shaped school house in Tobiki, although the villagers are willing to follow the American way, they do not accept this idea and instead a teahouse is built. All is running smoothly until Colonel Purdy, Fisby's commanding officer arrives and orders that the teahouse be destroyed. But, by the element of fate, the teahouse is saved when Purdy realizes that it is good for public relations. Fisby is transferred to another post, but he has learned much from the people of Tobiki, especially from the loyalty of his interpreter, Sakini.

The delicate and beautiful Lotus Blossom (Karen Daly) presents a chrysanthemum as a token to Captain Frisby (Norm Hatke) as a delighted Sakini looks on.

Randy Zook and Rex Albaugh frantically search for the answers during a one-minute open book test.

Mr. Miller keeps up with the "News of the Week"

A new thread was added to the tapestry, with the advent of Pre-Vocational Education.

PVE was offered to provide the chance for students to learn to be self-supporting. The course also presented the students with a chance to know what to expect when applying for a job.

The PVE program was divided into four courses: work orientation, occupational English, occupational math, and history.

Students worked in the maintenance of the school, helping in the cafeteria and assisting the custodial staff. In this way, they were able to apply what they learned to everyday life.

OUT SECOND THOUGHTS

Sophomores faced the problems of World History, involving: writing term papers, studying geography and learning to be attentive to lectures.

U.S. History students found the study of the reactions to the 1930's radio program, "The War of the Worlds," more realistic by the use of a mock warning. The announcement over the P.A. that Communist China and the USSR had launched counter-attacks and that several cities had been leveled gave U.S. History students a better idea of how people react to a crisis.

Government and Economics gave seniors a background in all levels of government and a lesson in finances.

As Mr. Beale tries to explain an idea of government, Mike McLeland finds something more amusing on the other side of the class.

Mr. Jack Buck explains a fundamental of P.V.E.

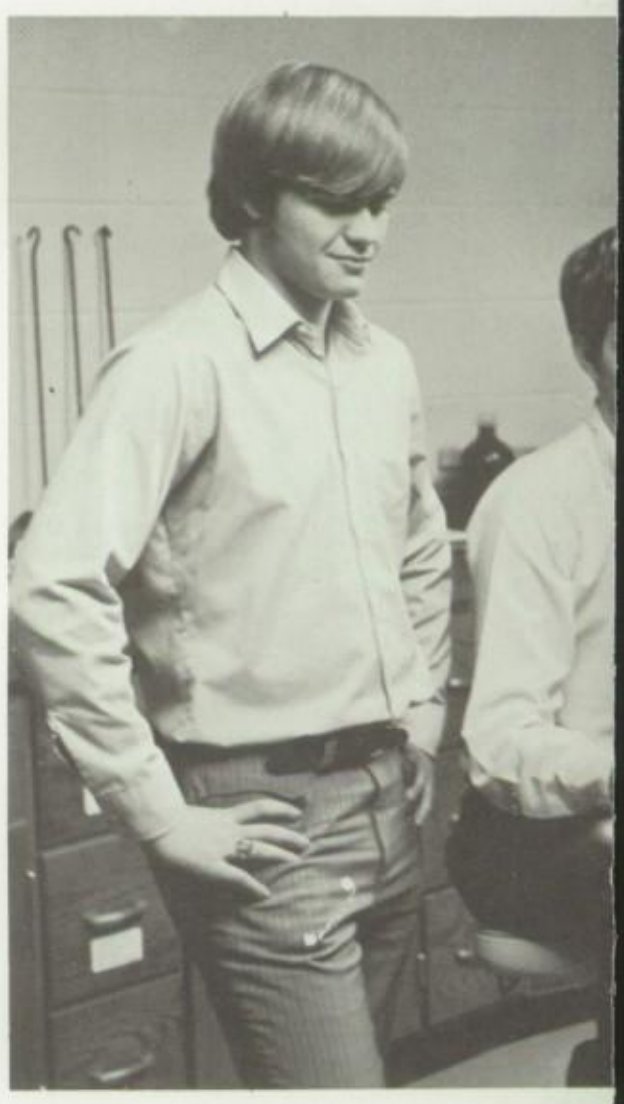
Seeking to find out more about themselves and others, provides a study basis for Sociology and Psychology students. By writing term papers on such topics as prison reform and by studying articles on behavior, students sought to satisfy their curiosity.

Sterilizing glassware is one of the many operations that Stanley Baker learns in the Science Preparation Room.

Mr. Geheb explains some basic principles of General Science to a few of his interested students.

SCIENTISTS SEEK ANSWERS

Performing an experiment under "the hood" are chemists Eric McClean, Chris Barnard, and Pat Manahan.



Physics Classes do many experiments and one of them is

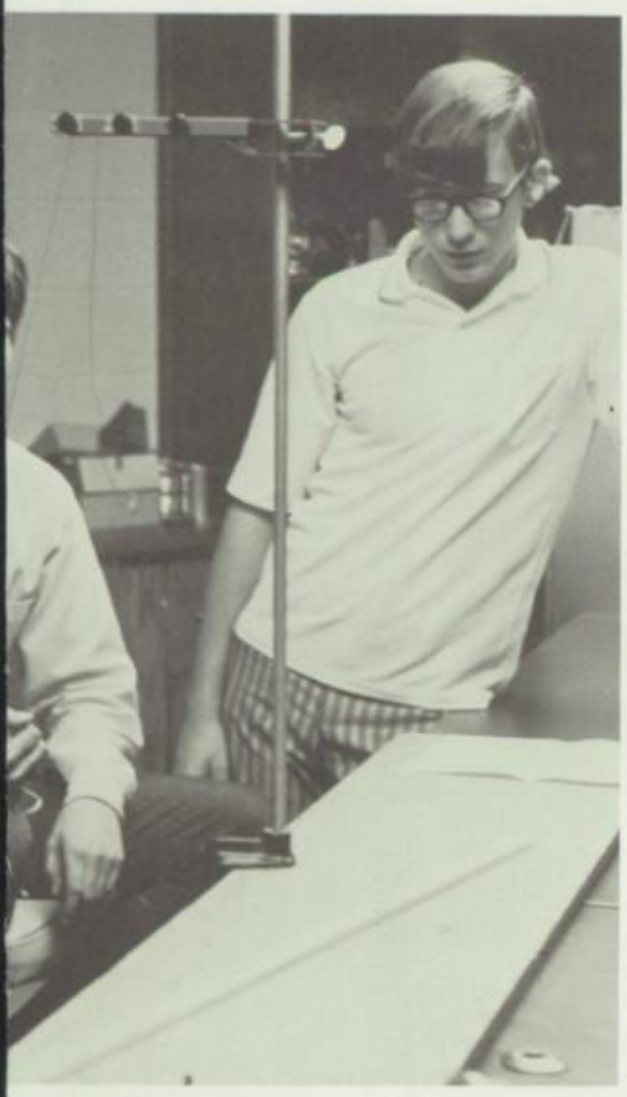
FASCINATION — PROBING THE WONDERS OF SCIENCE

Experiments, technological names, dissecting, hypotheses, and the final surprising outcome — these belong to the world of Science.

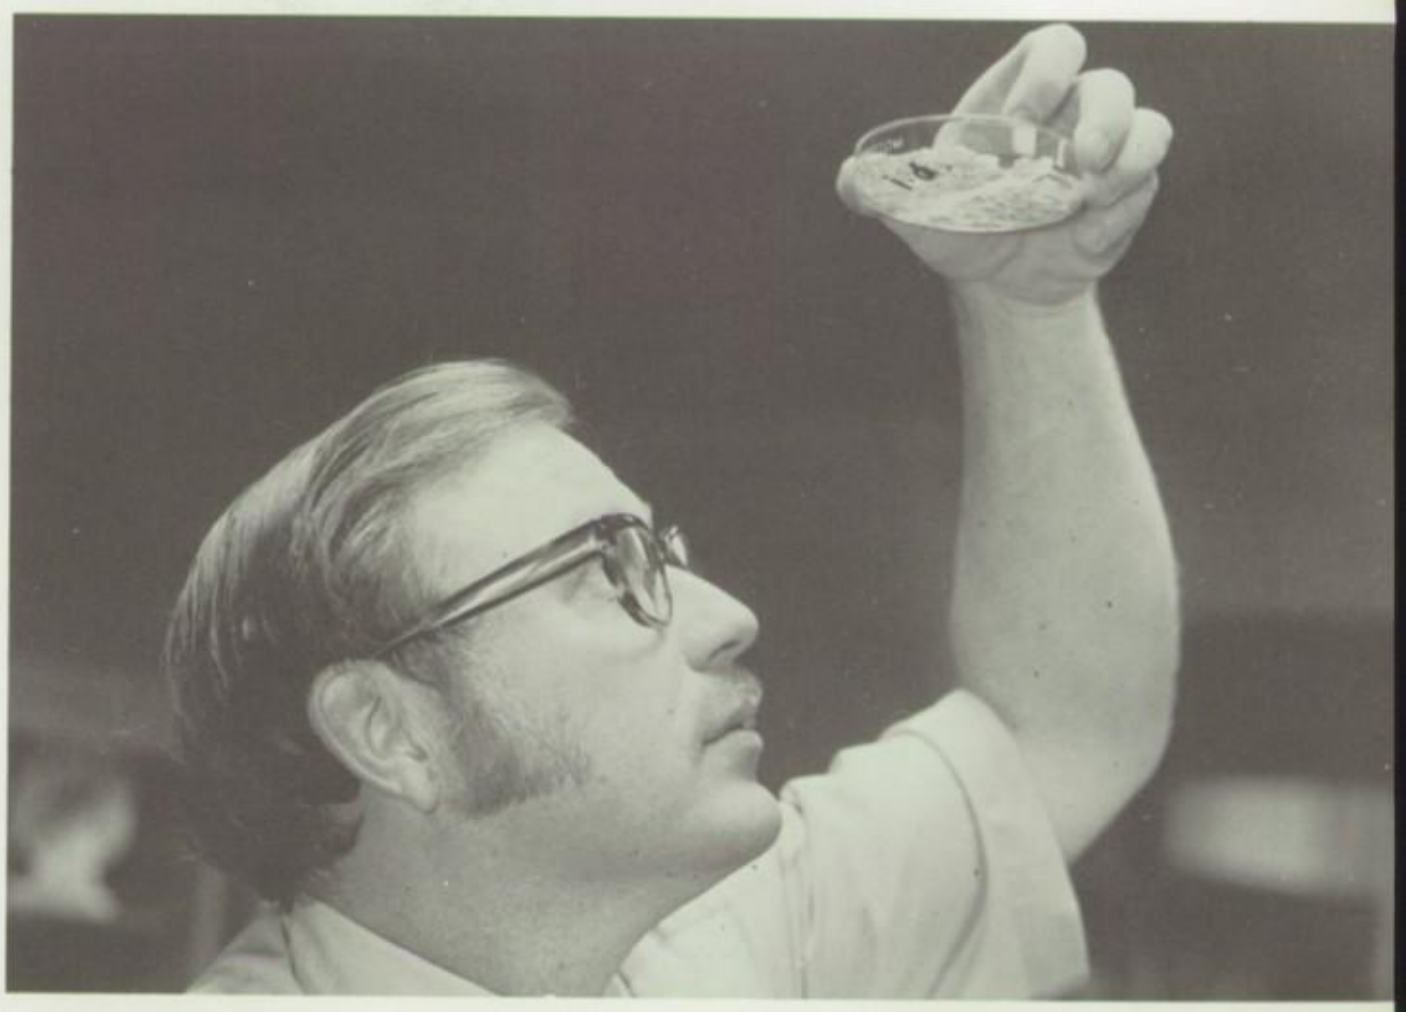
Biology students venture into "the World" unaware. If knowledge and interest pushes the venture a step further, the advanced Biology world provides more knowledge.

Chemistry involves lectures, lab work, and unlimited experiments with many interesting outcomes.

Physics is the study of movement in nature. Its students attempt to answer the "how's" and "why's" of the non-living world.



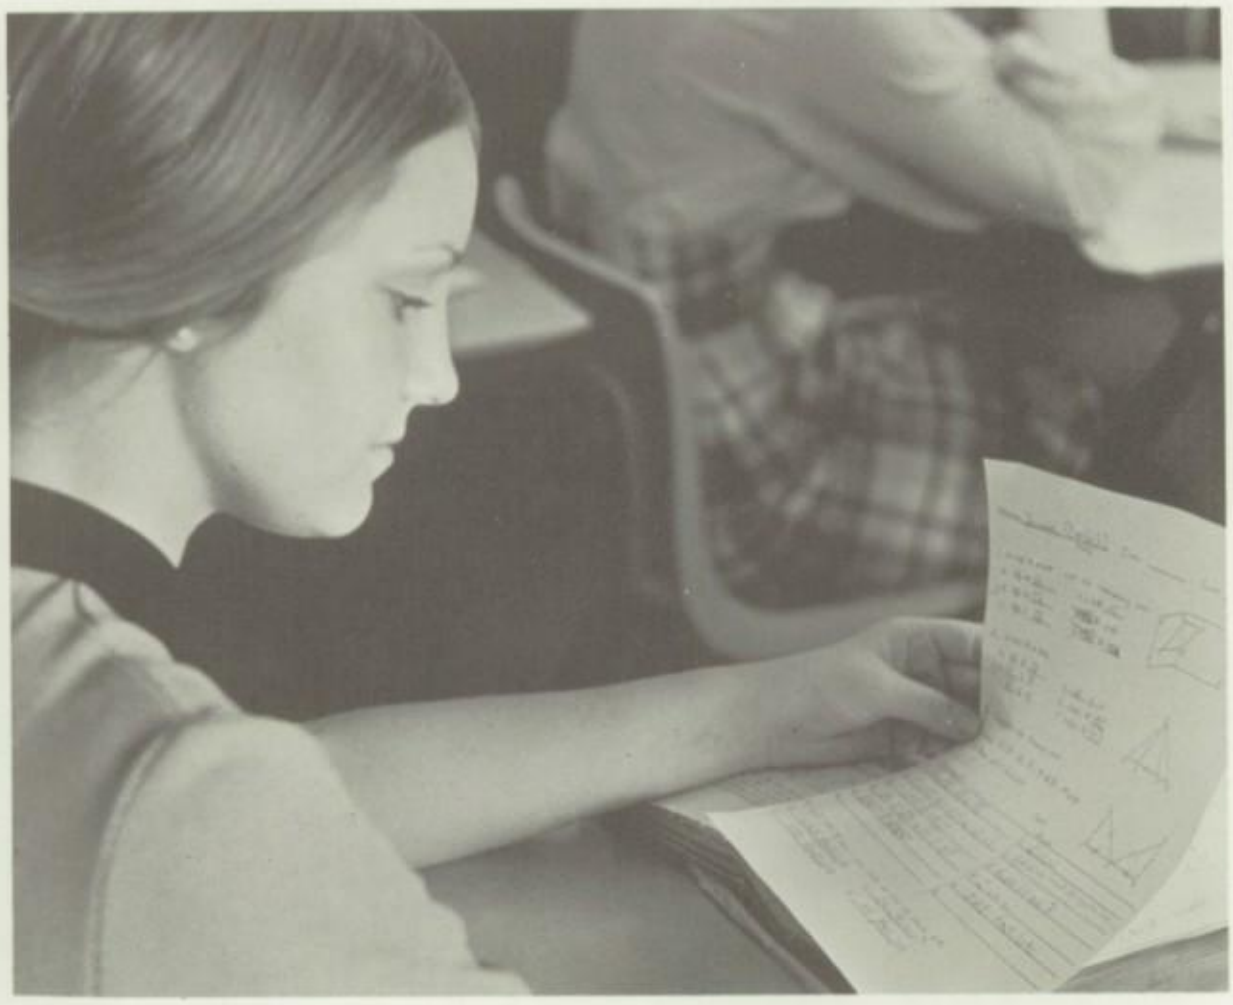
this pendulum experiment.



The experience and educational background of Mr. Hanna is very helpful when answering questions of advanced biology students.

This little piggy went to market, this little piggy stayed home, this little piggy is a test tube baby which Mr. Fellman and Scott Oberkrom are observing.

"NO EASY ROAD TO MATH," SAYS JOHN WILCOX

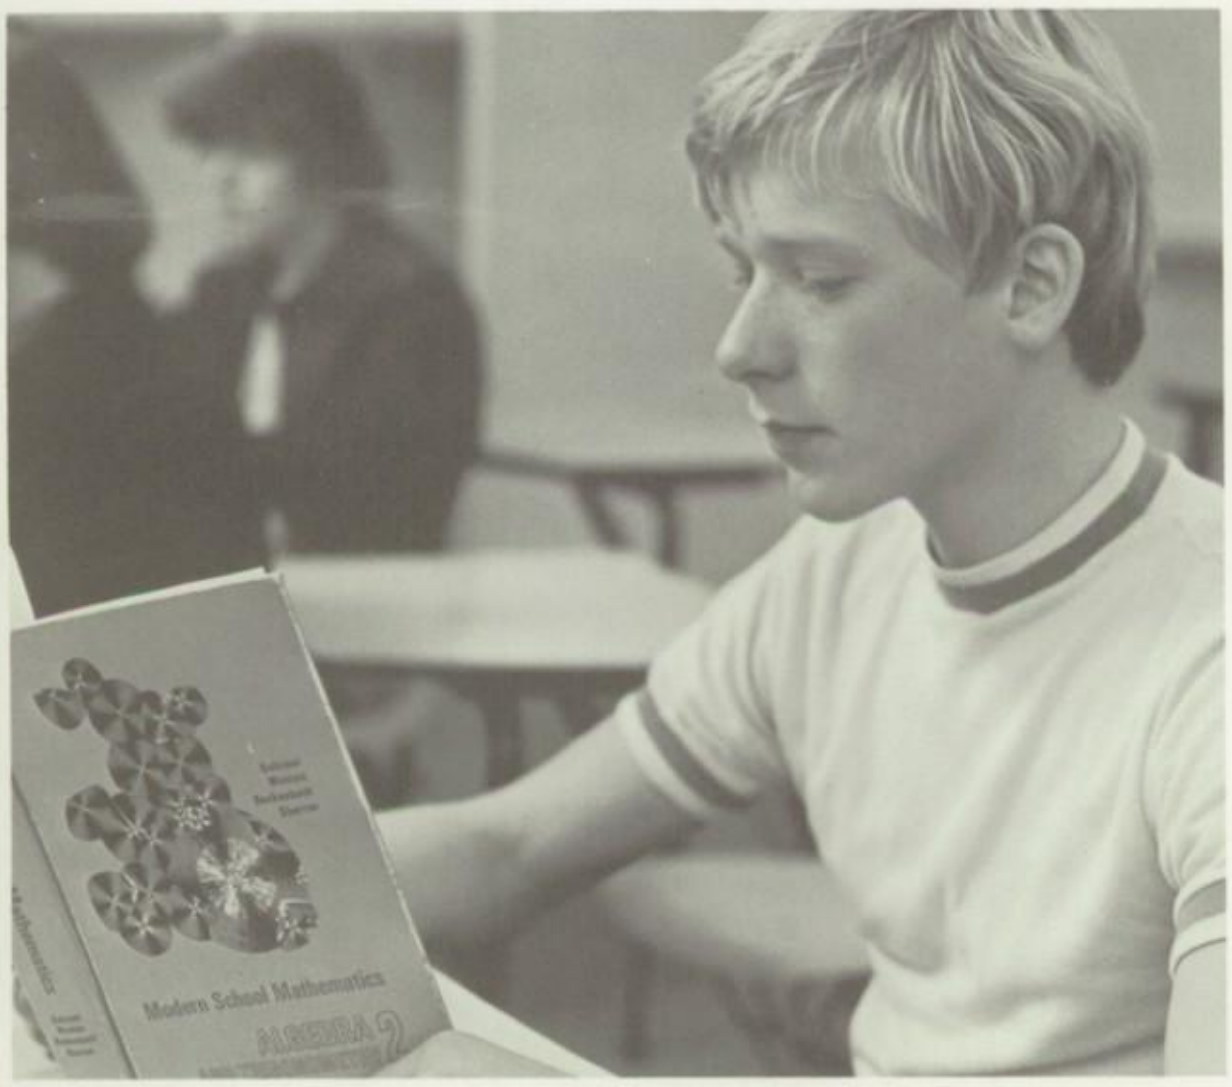


After looking at her returned test, Teresa Coghill learns from her mistakes.

Entangled in the web of number lines, graphs, and equations, puzzled math students try to figure out the pattern for finding the right answer.

Algebra and Geometry pupils find having the answer is not enough, but such a thing as a "proof" does exist, and equations don't always prove to be equal.

Those headed for college battle with Trigonometry and Calculus while other math students figure percentages. The path seems blurred, yet the basic ideas learned in math classes are entwined in everyday use.



Mike Trapp uses his spare time for a worthy cause.

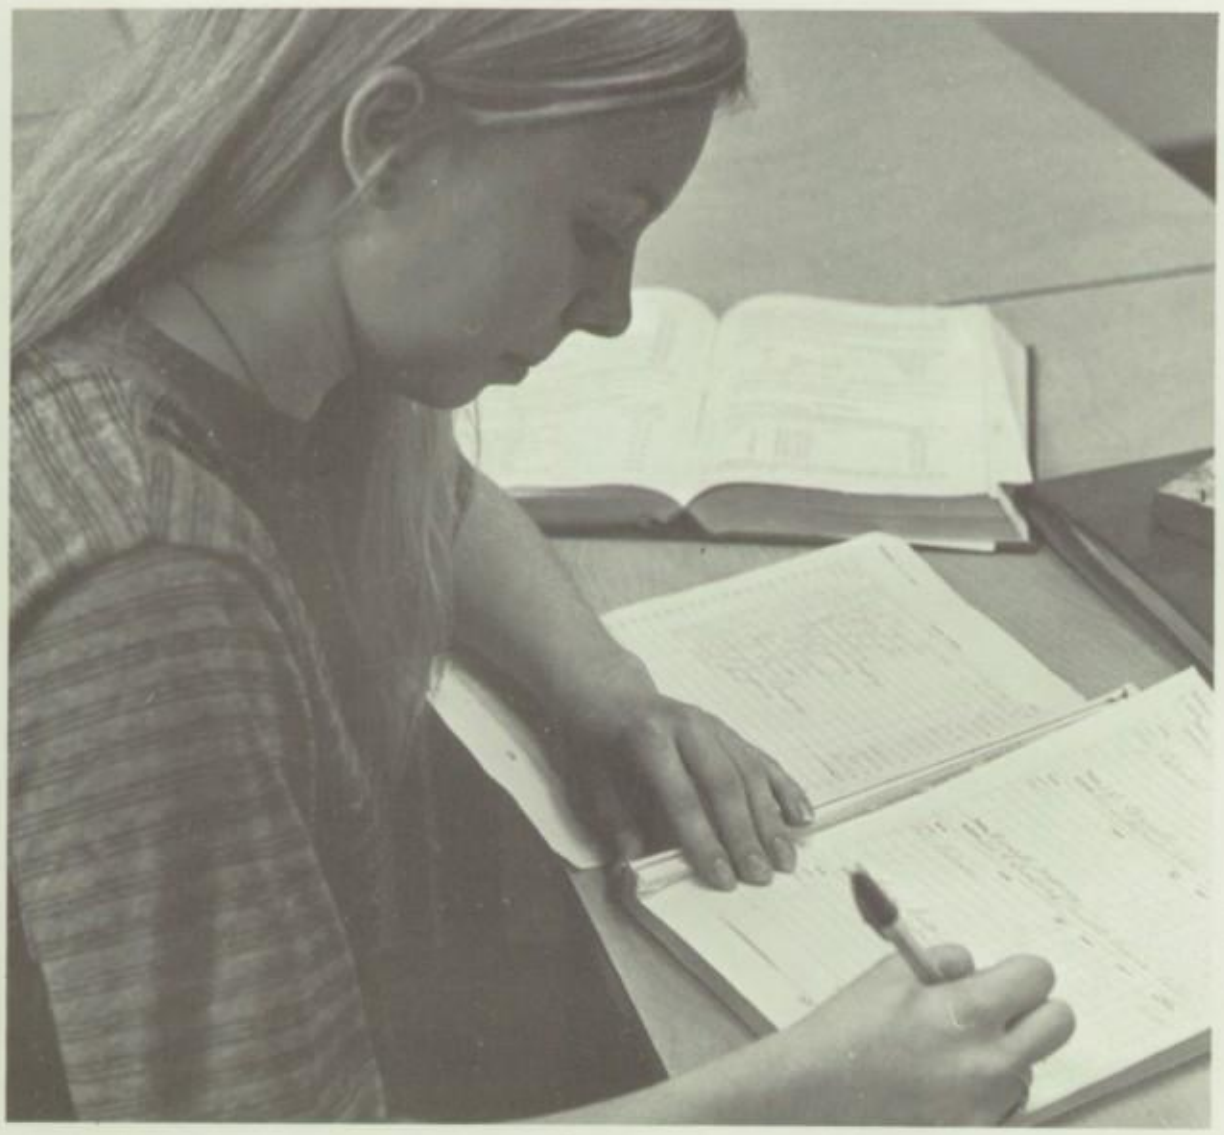
Mr. Wilcox attempts to add a humorous side to his class.

COMMUNICATION FOR THE FUTURE

Far more than dictaphones and calculators, the business section of DCHS has given interested students a taste of life after graduation.

Many learned to reach out with better means of communication such as typists, office lab workers, and OEA members who helped in the party for the retarded children. Some learned how to figure for the future in math sections. The class of Business Law offered common sense instruction for insurance forms and contracts. All of these courses were elective for students interested in these particular fields or wishing some basic skills.

Mrs. Grimm gives typing advice to Chris Young and Cindy Hanawalt who will find typing helpful in other subjects.



Sherri Maxwell brings her ledger up to date, as she will in future jobs and personal use.

Being an advanced typing student and an Office Lab member, Ruth Lucas strives for accuracy.

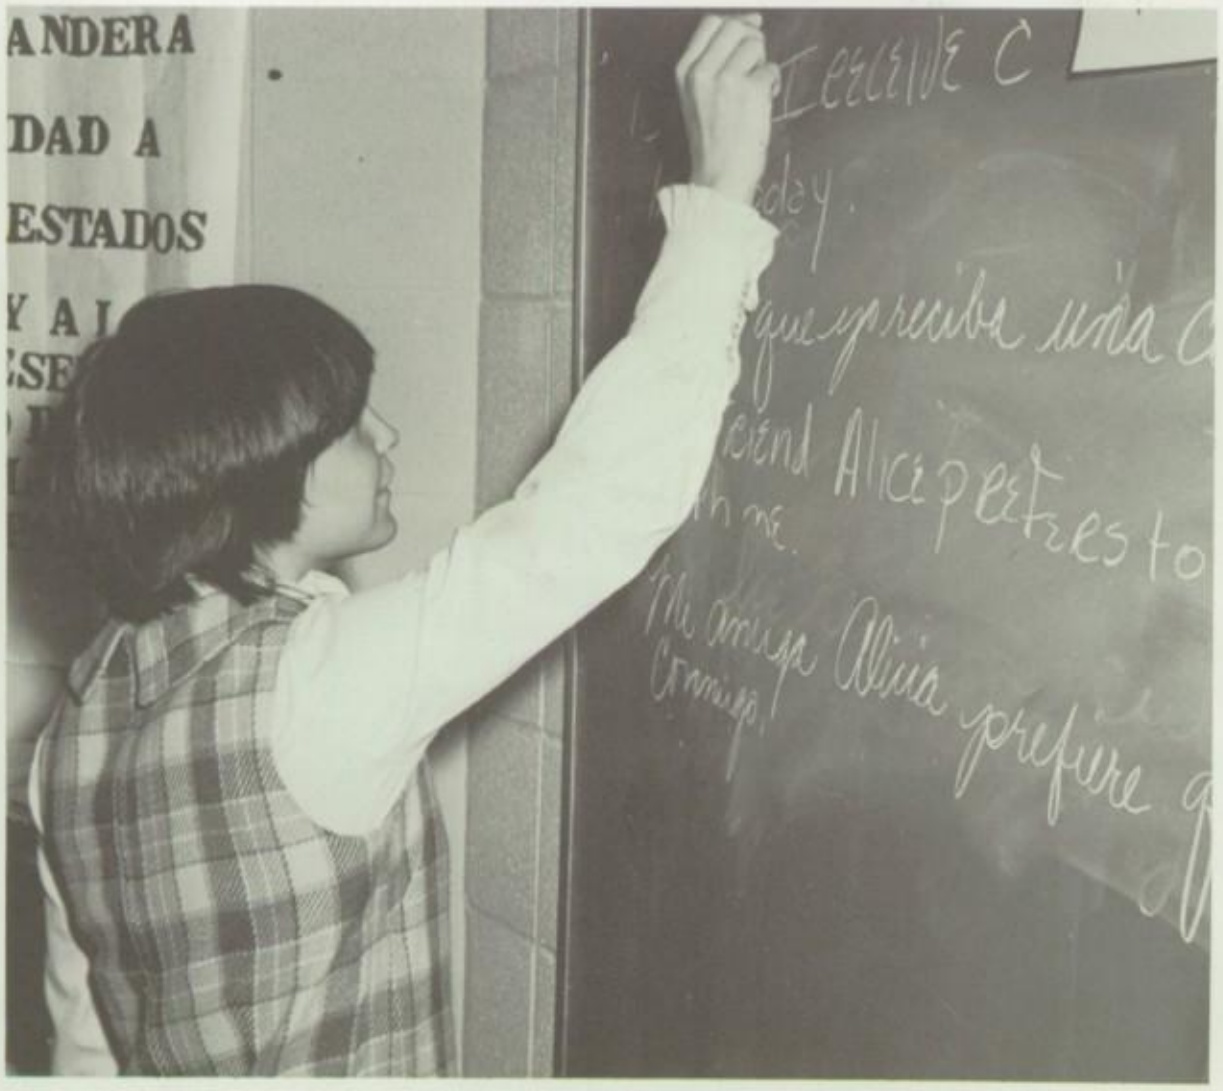
French III students gain an insight into French history as they listen to le professeur.

All of Madame Klein's students must learn to recognize the French Flag.

SOME SAY THE LANGUAGES ARE DYING OUT

Much can be learned through discussions involving all three languages — Spanish, French, and German.

THESE STUDENTS CERTAINLY WOULDN'T AGREE



Mary Hyman finds translation more difficult on the third level of Spanish.

Future Spanish major, Debra Gish, enjoys aiding Mr. Alvarez with his work.

With a Spanish flair, French romance, and German diction, foreign language students strive to perfect their pronunciation.

Translated into Spanish, children's stories become humorous tales, while practice is gained in preparing Spanish foods for lunch.

"No English spoken on Fridays" is the rule during French classes. Students practiced writing in French by composing letters. Surprisingly enough some letters were mysteriously answered with sarcastic advice.

"Any oaf would know what this means."

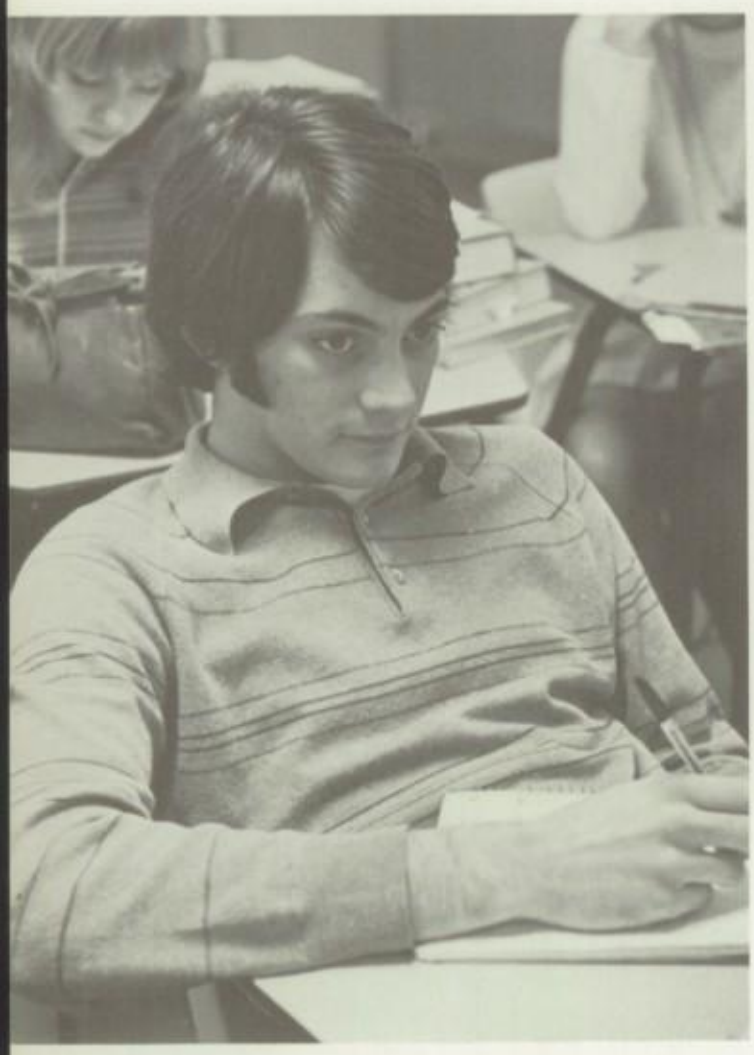
DCHS SHAPES COMMUNICATION AND EXPRESSION



Terry Boles gets lost in enchantment of Shakespeare's MacBeth in his Senior English class.

The woven magic of speaking and conveying thought through expressions fabricates the essense of the Speech and Drama classes.

Students form confidence and theatrical skills to display before others. The techniques learned in speech class were incorporated into other classroom orations. Also woven into this pattern are back stage experience in building sets, running lights, and applying makeup.

Putting these skills to practical use and adding much hard work, the drama class presented a play.

In English class, Steve Scott, Pam Tulp, and Eric Clawson have a rap session concerning their ancestors.

Mr. Buck instructs Mike Gerard in proper speech notes as the class follows on overhead projection.

SENIORS STUDY "JESUS CHRIST SUPERSTAR"

Freshman English classes became acquainted with famous Dickens characters and those of other classics and also pondered upon short stories that express the problems of growing up.

Sophomores were assigned to the tedious task of writing term papers, yet were occupied with in-class work, such as listening to and anlyzing songs.

Juniors shared this self-expression, while they studied songs, poems, films and novels dealing with minorities.

Seniors dwelled upon topics such as "Violence" and "Dropping Out." They also spent time on creative projects which also was a form of self-expression.

Elaine Munson learns in Dramatics class that a mere costume can change or reflect a different mood in a play.

Jack Adcock, Johnny Disinger, Perry Lewis, and Chere Babb watch as their English teacher, Mrs. Baker, grades their test over the Bible.

MONSTERS INVADE THE SCIENCE SHOWCASE

Line, balance, repetition, texture, perspective and color combinations — these are the traits of "good art" learned by Art I students who apply what they learn to projects such as name design and pottery.

"Monster Land," a display done by Art II students, expressed their creativity and imagination. Different effects of water color, tempra, and acrylic paint are learned.

"Style" is a further expression of III and IV students, who develop themselves through pottery, painting, drawing, and weaving.

Kathy Widner, Art IV student, manually expresses her creativity as she pounds out a metal ring.

Monica Rhine demonstrates to the class the importance of concentration and firm handling of the clay while using the pottery wheel.

Dennis Lynch explores the possibilities of carving designs on wood.

"Jeremiah was a bull frog, was a good friend of mine . . ."

These lyrics as well as those of many other popular songs were often heard in the early hours of the morning as Top Twenty practiced. However, the early morning practice sessions paid-off when they received a superior rating in the top division at the NISBOVA contest.

Two new groups, A Cappella and Madrigal, added variety to the music department.

Forces were joined in the spring as members of the four groups sang their way to the other schools in the area.

Mr. Fisher looks on as these talented singers prepare for contest.

Future home plans are discussed in Home

An important part in weaving life's tapestry is properly learning everyday procedures.

Girls of any grade learn cooking, sewing, good grooming, and baby care, as expressed in such projects as "Home Color Plan," which allows one's imagination to wander into the "house of the future."

Child care enables girls to learn how to handle human nature while finding out about themselves. Personality is also improved by good grooming habits. After all, self improvement is an important part of the finished tapestry.

DCHS VOCATION, HEADSTART ON FUTURE

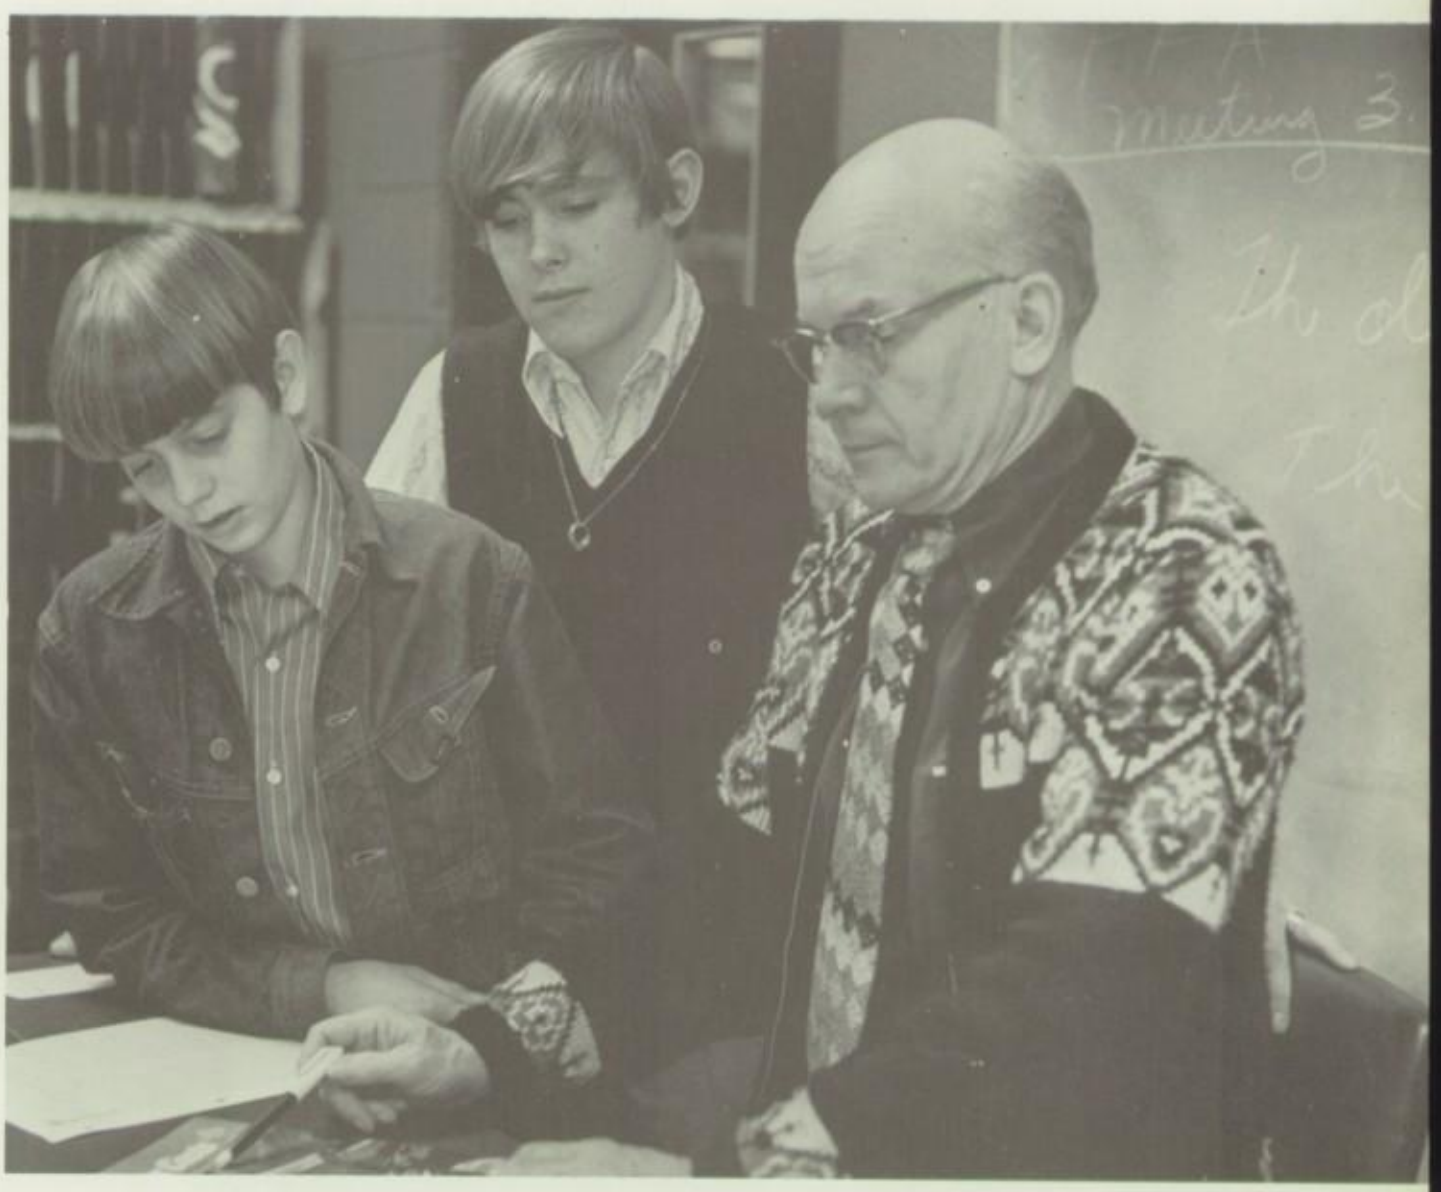
Ec. Classes.

Vona Green carefully checks stitching of her dress.

The young farmer of today sees before him a patchwork layout of technological advances in soil erosion, crop science, and the development of new hybrids.

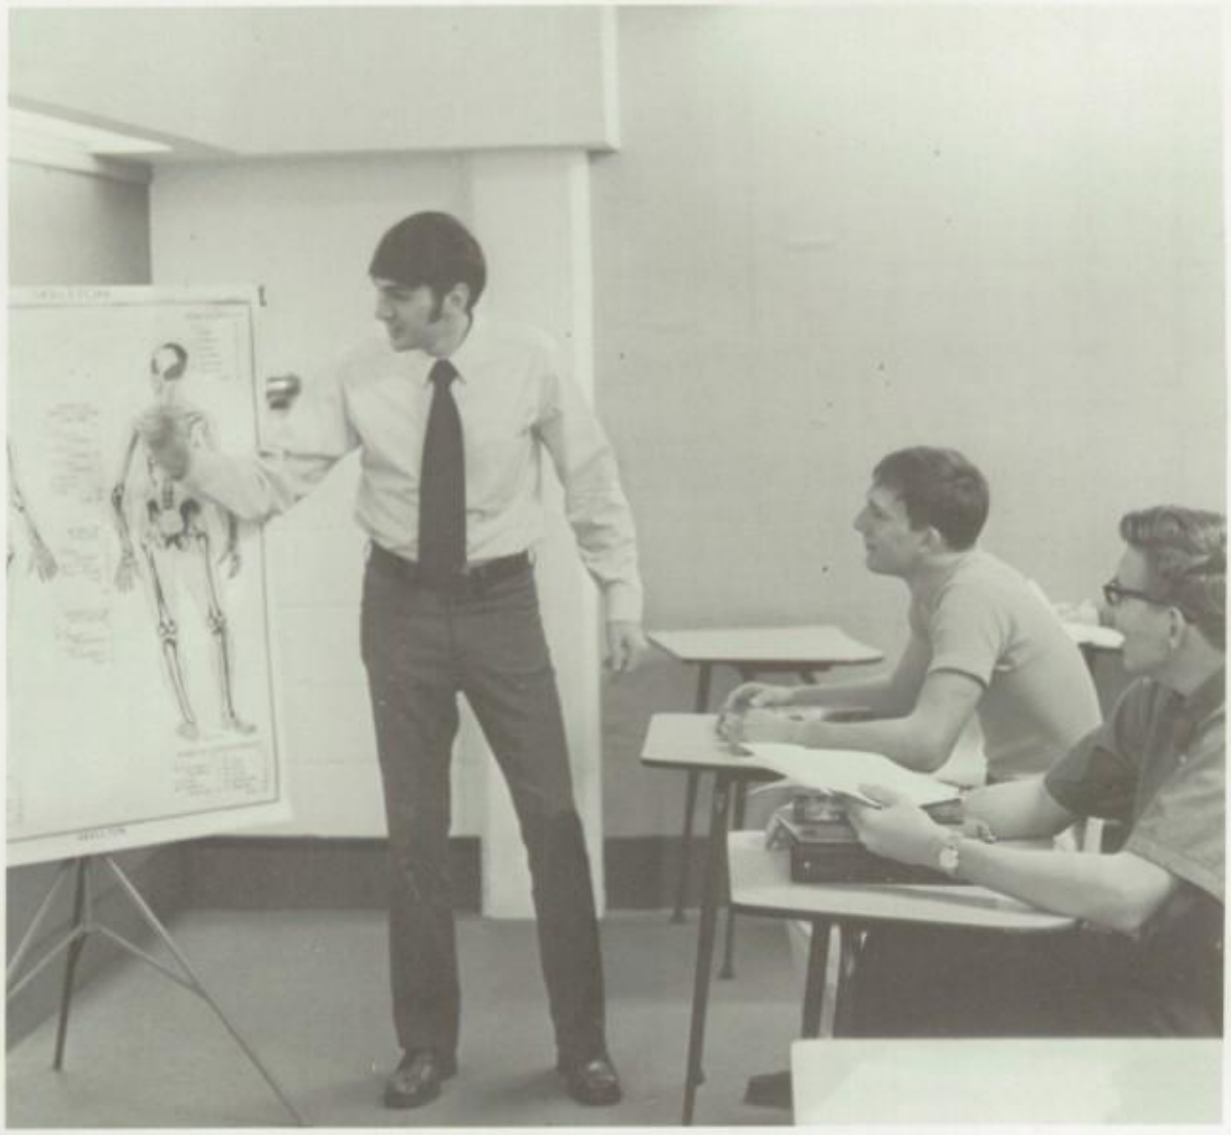
To be able to learn these new techniques the farmer of today must engage his mind as well as his muscles to successfully run a farm. This is where the practical understanding of these skills is put to test.

With well trained farmers and advanced techniques the world of tomorrow can look toward a brighter future in feeding our hungry world.



Todd Shaffer and Dean Dilly discuss financial aspects of farming with Mr. Weaver.

PHYSICAL MAKE-UP LEARNED IN HEALTH CLASS



Mr. Angelo points out the specific regions of the human anatomy.

The future belongs to those who are physically fit — those with strong minds and bodies. DCHS helped prepare us with modern equipment and facilities and interested teachers.

Health class, with new books and visual aids taught students about their bodies, bone structure and proper diet.

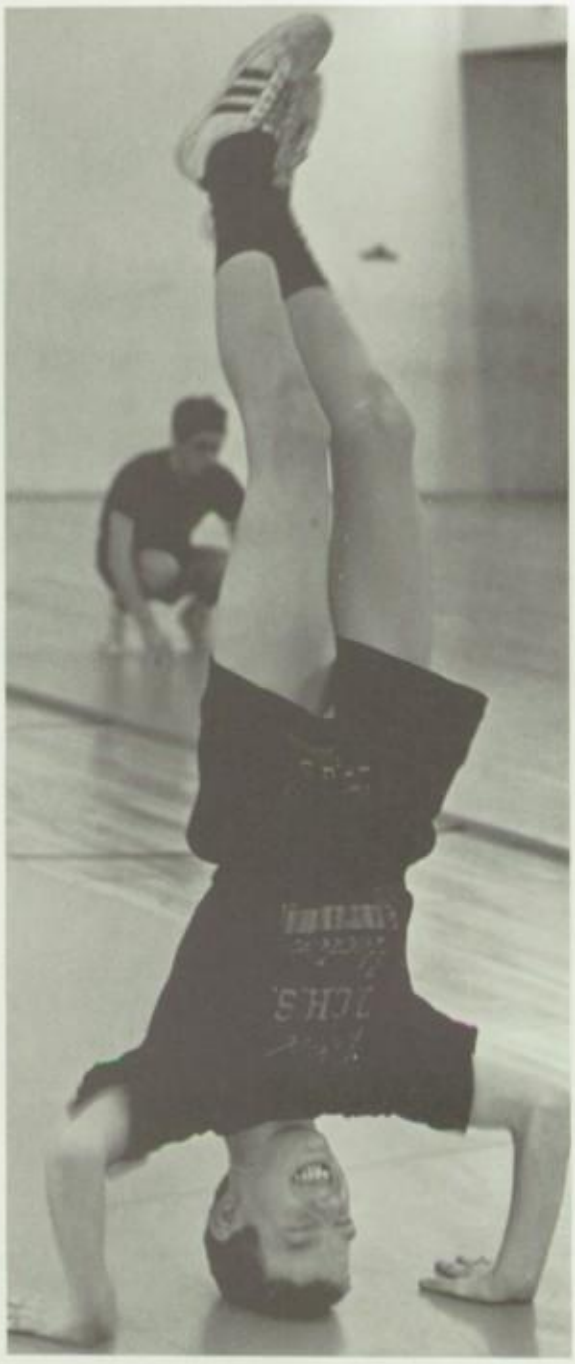
Students in P.E. learned to get along with others in the locker room and in activity. Everything from hockey and volleyball to archery and golf stressed coordination.

All this was done to help the future leaders to make them aware of the advantages of knowing and caring for one's body.

After a rough workout on the Universal Weight Training Machine, these boys will head for a cold shower.

PRACTICE CREATES COORDINATION

Demonstrating rhythm and balance, Mrs. Jones leads the class in modern movements.



Made it! After many long hours of practice Duane Neff finally masters a head stand.

"Up-down, up-down" . . . is a sound often heard echoing through the gym during P.E. classes.

GARAGE TO HOME MECHANICS PROVES USEFUL

Lester Klopfenstein drills into his work with enthusiasm.

Mr. Beach instructs his Home Mechanics class in the use of simple tools.

Precision measuring produces the perfect circle for Vicki Cole.

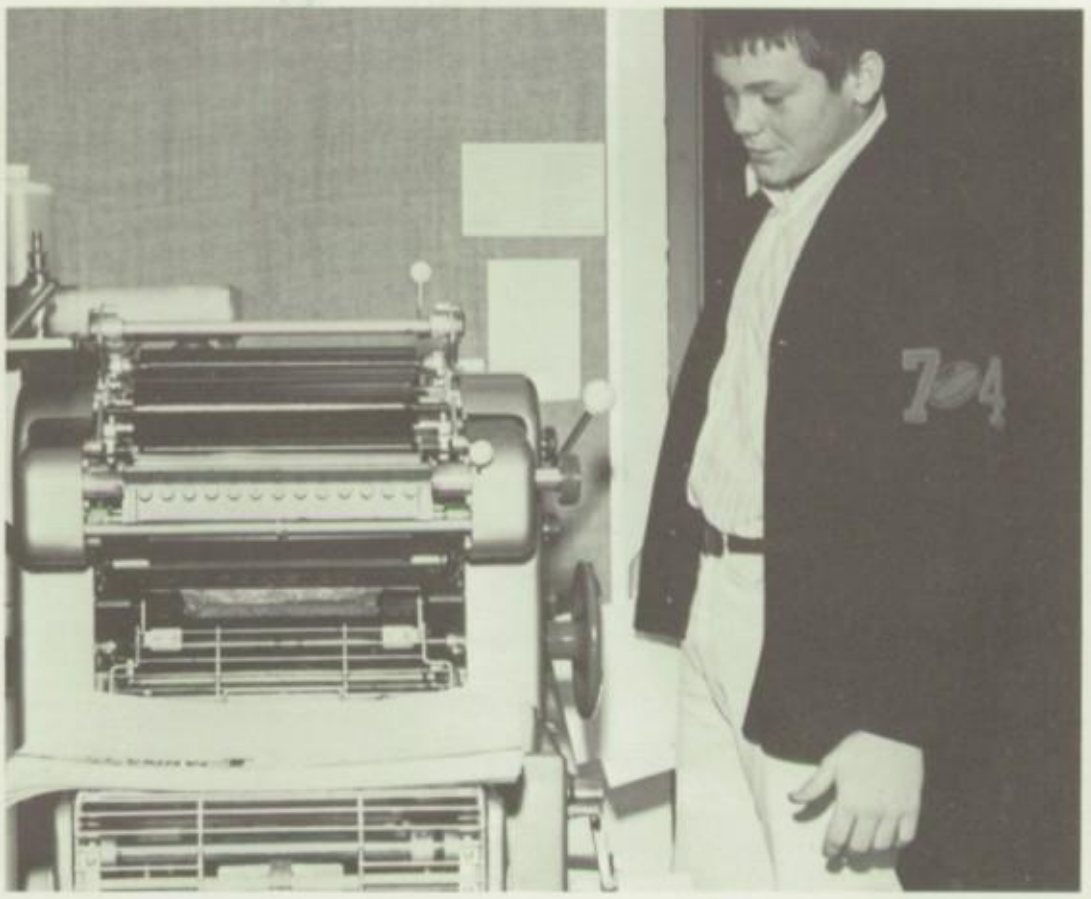
Terry Duff finds that muscle power and brain work combine to fix a car engine.

NEW MACHINERY BRINGS ABOUT VIGOROUS RESPONSE

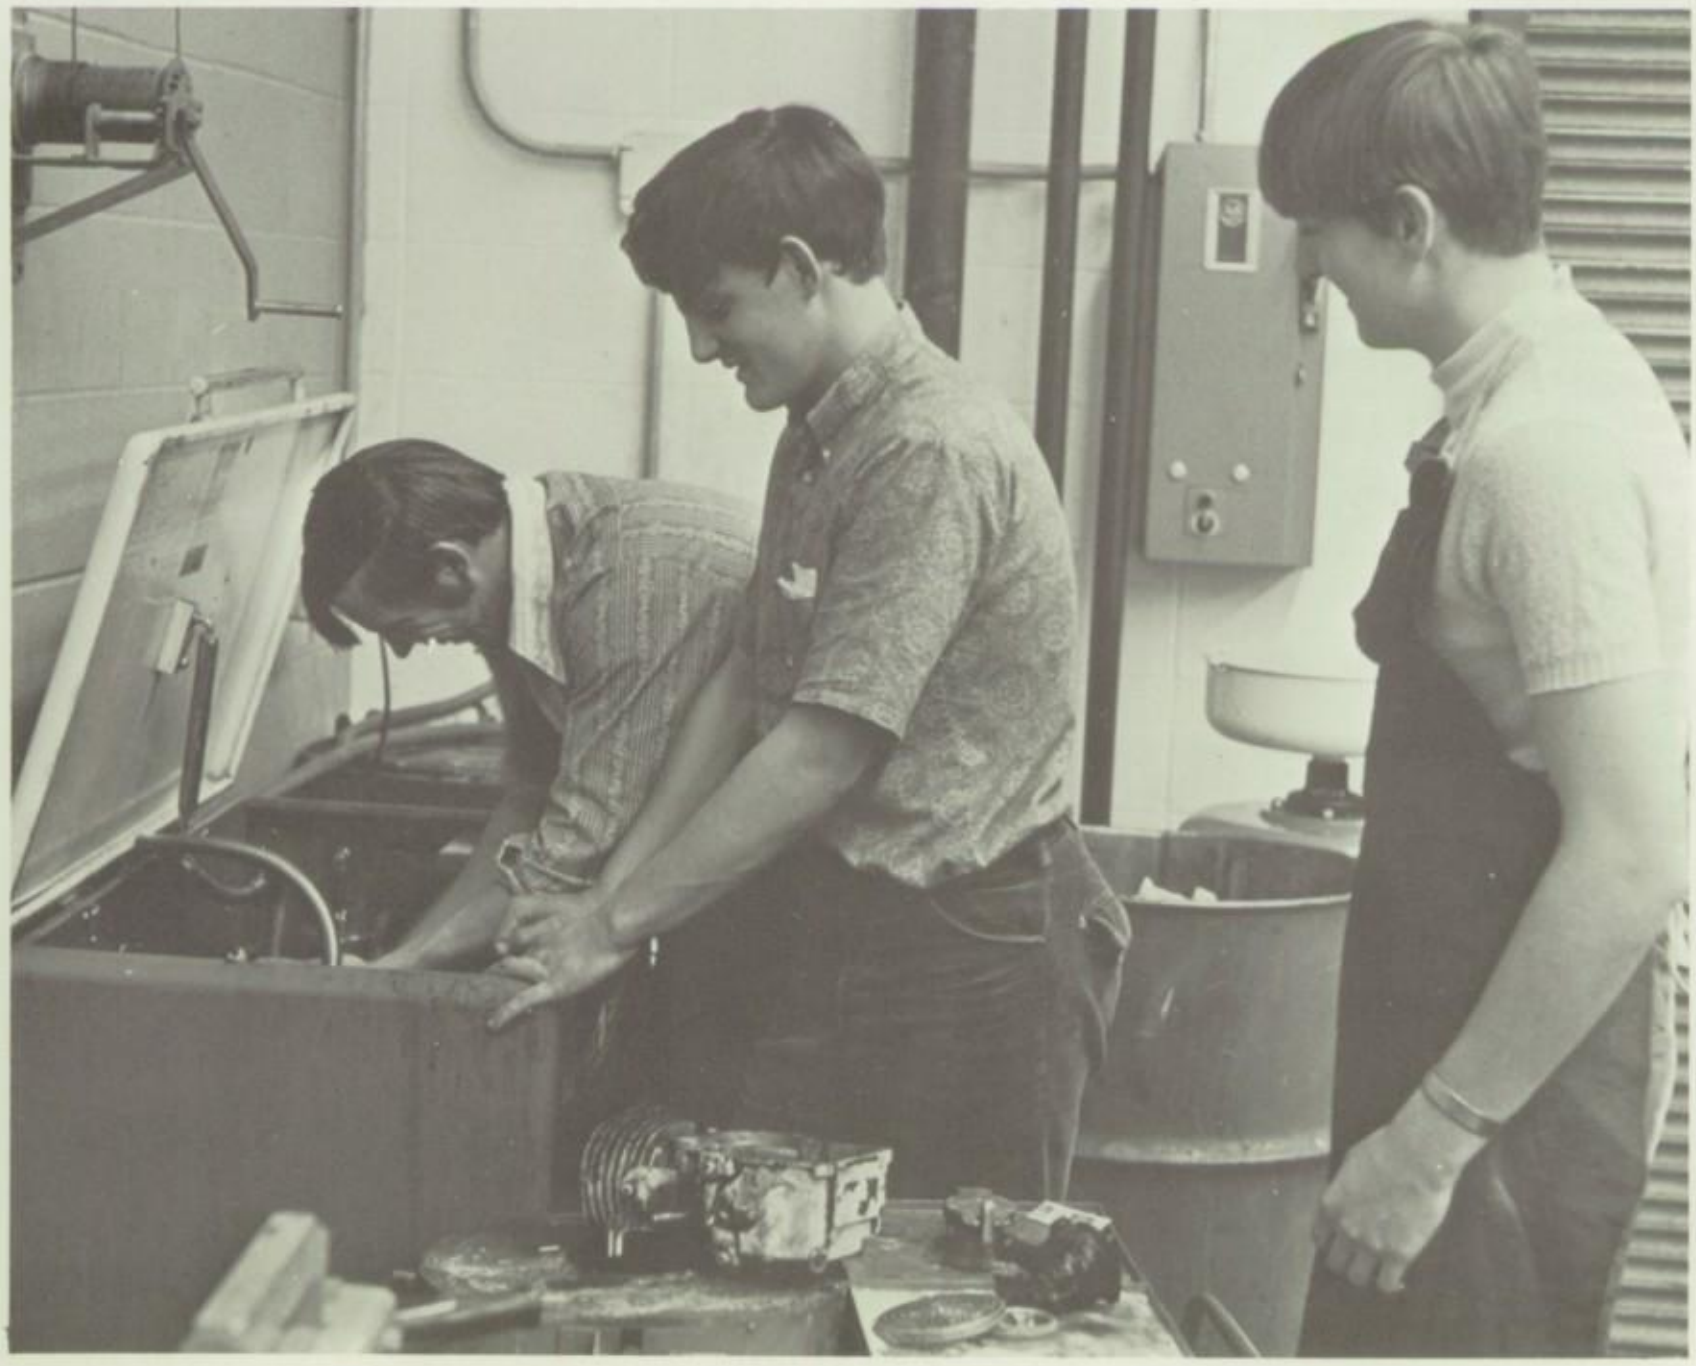
As students branch out into areas of specific interest, many choose a field in Industrial arts. A variety of class choices are available with the new facilities in our building.

For the first time this year, the offset press was put into operation. This expensive piece of machinery was under the supervision of Mr. Ebrite and his classes were instructed on how to operate it. The press was used to print the school paper, the Parnassus, and for printing programs.

Classes offered in this area are designed for those wanting a practical skill in a future job.



Dennis Randall wonders over the complexities of the Off Set Press.



Terry Walters, Lynn Oberkrom, and Doug Wilson work enthusiastically while cleaning a motor.

With the theme of "A Visit To Mother Gooseland," each Oracle staff member played a different Mother Goose character. Old Mother Goose herself was portrayed by Advisor, Mr. Jack Sanders and highlighted the kickoff skit for Oracle sales. Other nursery rhymes imitated ranged from Jack and Jill to Little Bo Peep to Ole King Cole and, so on, the parade went.

After the kickoff skit, sales staff went hard to work selling a record amount of 1972 Oracles, photography staff began capturing those "never to be forgotten" moments while copyists tried desperately to grace each page with original and catchy copy. Then, the typists started the awesome task of typing everything perfectly on stencils to be sent off before the deadline dates. "Remember," shouted the Carens, "The Oracle must go out!"

A five dollar bill is handed over to salesman, Norm Hatke, by Joe Haines, for his subscription to the '72 ORACLE.

PARNASSUS STAFF SETS THE PACE WITH GOALS

PARNASSUS STAFF: J. Myer, N. Hatke, J. Brosman, E. Munson, C. Been, T. Ebrite.

From the stunned silence as the first Parnassus rolled off the press, to the advent of the off set press, the Parnassus staff had come a long way.

The mimeograph machine that had been used for many years was replaced by an off set press. The new press enabled pictures which greatly added to the appearance of the paper.

Staff members learned valuable experience by doing various assingments. Term papers on famous journalists, in depth coverage of news events, and news quizzes gave the staff experience in the many facets of journalism.

SECOND ANNUAL AFS WEEKEND — BIG HIT

"Bonjour," "Hola," "Hello," were just a few of the many grettings expressed as approximately thirty AFS students and their host brothers or sisters descended on DCHS in December.

The AFS weekend included a swimming party, a rap session, and several other parties held at various homes.

"Manahan's Match" was the AFS booth at the Oracle-Fest.

AFS queen candidate Robin Clawson was crowned Queen of the Oracle-Fest.

Pictures of friends and family made for good discussion between club president, Susan Ives and Victor Portillo.

GERMAN CLUB BREAKS THE APATHY BARRIER

Wet sponges and sorrowful faces made great invitations for Robin Clawson and Nancy Walker at the fall Oracle-Fest.

"Die Deutsche Gesylschaft," or commonly referred to as the German Club, has gone through the trials and tribulations of a new organization in the making. None the less, results have been most rewarding.

One activity of the group was attending a German restaurant, Die Alt Heidleberg, which offered members a real "taste" of German culture.

As participants in the Variety Show, the club presented a satirical skit entitled "The Going Steady Game." Another money raising venture was the dance featuring "The Deep Water Combo."

FUTURE TEACHERS EXPLORE WABASH CENTER

Future Teachers of America began the year to strains of Jesus Christ Superstar. The group traveled to Indiana University to view the rock opera in the new assembly hall.

Trips were made to Wabash Center for the Retarded in Lafayette and Lewis Cass High School to view different kinds of teaching methods. At Wabash they observed the adult supervised work shop as well as classrooms for small children. Lewis Cass gave FTA members a chance to see a school operated on modular scheduling.

Exploratory teachers served as teachers' aids at Hillcrest and the Middle School. Through experience such as presenting lessons on electricity to kindergarten and preparing pop quizzes for eighth graders, they discovered some of the many requirements of good teachers.

TO PRESENT "THIS IS YOUR LIFE"

Le Club de Français this year revived the traditional French Dance.

Club members participated in a trip to the heart of Hoosierland, Indianapolis, to dine in the authentic atmosphere of a true French Cafe. The entire menu was in French and orders were given in that language.

Ageless carols were sung during the Yule Season for residents of the Delphi area. Snowflakes and song mingled to make the singing a pleasure for both participant and audience.

The group also participated in The International Night at which delicious pastries of French cuisine were served for dessert.

Denise Horn and her guitar entertained members of the audience at Variety Show '72.

French Club members improved their vocabulary and pronunciation by speaking the language in small groups.

TO EL CIRCULO ESPANOL

El Circulo Español consists of students having at least one year of the study of the Spanish language. The annual initiation was a big event that started the club's busy schedule.

At Christmas time the group's members went caroling "around the world" when they joined their voices with the Participating members of the German and French Clubs.

The display cases in the foreign language wing boasted of colorful pinatas made at Christmastime.

A great deal of time and preparation was needed to insure success at The International Night at which the Spanish Club provided guests with flavorful dishes of hot and spicy food.

INTERNATIONAL THESPIAN SOCIETY #1493 PRESENTS

Dorothy and her pals, though weird in appearance, made many friends with the audience of Oz.

Purdue student teacher, Jack Steinbrecker, Advisor Morris Buck, and troupe member, Brenda Daly confer on the production of Teahouse of the August Moon.

Skins glowed in shades of blue, green, and gold, and costumes were elegant at the children's theatre.

Altering costumes, experimenting with make-up, and learning how to apply crepe hair for beards and mustaches occupied the Thespians as they prepared for "The Wizard of Oz." Many hours of rehearsal went into the final production which was presented for the children of the community.

Profits from the oz venture were used to finance a trip to Chicago to view professional performances of name plays.

Troupe members, Karen Daly and Norm Hatke performed a one-act play, This Property Is Condemned, for the Oracle Club of Delphi.

Initiation for new members was held in the spring where they received certificates recognizing them as members of International Thespians.

Notes on job duties are compared by Kathy O'Farrell and Debbie Pearson.

Future Business Leaders of America is a club with a definite purpose: to talk with the business world and take on the qualities of a leader.

Throughout the year, field trips are taken to insurance companies and business colleges. Often representatives from various schools appear as guest speakers at club meetings.

Office Education Association consists of eight girls who participate in an on-the-job training program. The girls worked at Culligan, The Public Library, the Hillcrest and Middle School, and in the high school offices.

Working with various kinds of office equipment and doing projects to learn proper use of each machine helps prepare girls for office work.

Two weeks were spent in touring businesses in the community. Observation was made of the types of equipment used and finding out what was expected of employees.

METAL DETECTOR HELPS DISCOVER OLD RELICS

Jim Mahoney seeks references and materials concerning today's problems for a club project.

Social Studies Club devoted its interest to various selected areas. A metal detector was purchased by the group in order to uncover buried artifacts at the national park in Battleground, Indiana. There, the members attempted to find old bullets and relics from the War of 1812.

The club also showed films and presented individual projects on topics of historical merit. Members were encouraged to investigate areas of personal interest.

FUTURE FARMERS ATTEND LOUISVILLE FARM SHOW

Two proud future farmers exhibit their ducks that were used as moving targets for the FFA ring-toss at the fall Oracle-Fest.

Beginning a week of activities in observance of National Future Farmers' Week, 13 boys attended the Farm Show in Louisville, Kentucky. This show featured a huge tractor pull and the latest in farm equipment.

The Farm Progress Show, near Brookston, proved of great interest with demonstrations of a powerful tractor pull contest. At that show, members also had the opportunity to see an old-fashioned threshing machine in actual operation.

COOKIES, TO SELLING COOKBOOKS, TRAINING FOR CHILDCARE

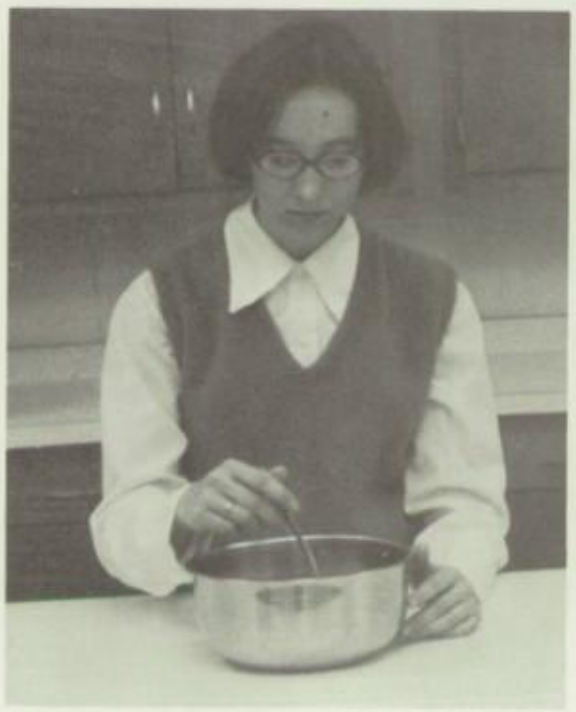
At Christmas time, "Would you like to buy a cookbook?" was the familiar phrase used by FHA members. This project of selling cookbooks turned into a real money making endeavor for the club.

Also, at Christmas time, members prepared cookies to take to the patients at the Carroll County Home.

Members of the Future Homemakers also were able to take field trips and were always on hand to act as hostesses for school banquets.

They learned helpful pointers for modern housekeeping, sewing, and cooking. They also gained valuable experience in child care.

Future Homemakers learned that properly mixed ingredients help foods to taste better.



A carefully refinished end-table was a rewarding project for Sharon Christiansen.

G.A.A. IS F.U.N.

G.A.A. President, Wendy Woods, converses with team member, Mary Geheb, concerning the yearly schedule.

Tennis, bowling, and badminton were sports incorporated into the activities of the Girls' Athletic Association.

The girls met each week with Mrs. Rosie Jones and participated in various team games for the fun and opportunity to develop their athletic skills.

As members of the High School Girls' Athletic Association, they competed with neighboring schools such as Carroll, Twin Lakes, and Rossville in basketball and volleyball. In this competition they practiced good sportsman-like conduct.

Those interested participated in the science fair and used creativity as well as scientific notions. A field trip was taken to Delco Electronics in Kokomo.

Science-Math members were given a chance to contemplate the world of the future. Computers and automation were studied in order to prepare the members for what may be awaiting the world of science.

WHAT MAKES LIFE TICK?

Insects, plant life, man, those are all interests of the Biology Club. The club is made up of students from any grade who wish to further explore plant and animal life.

Monthly meetings make it possible for the members to get together and discuss scientific innovations.

No matter what the weather, the young biologists have access to plants. The green house and the moat around the Material Resource Center provide the chance for observation as well as renovation.

A trip to the Purdue Laboratories enabled club members to check out scientific equipment.

"WITH LOVE IN MY HEART"

President Janice Brosman and Vice President Linda Lentner contemplate a suggestion made at a meeting.

Candlelight initiation services, a scavenger hunt at Christmas, a new point system, and the State Convention at I.U. were pieces used in the Sunshine Society's pattern for the year.

DCHS Sunshiners are junior and senior girls whose main goal is to bring sunshine into the lives of others in school and in the community.

GSC — A BIG SPLASH

Girls' Service Club is made up of freshman and sophomore girls whose purpose is to serve the community in whatever way they can.

Braving water and traffic, the girls washed cars to make money, and at the same time, extended a helping hand to the community.

A visit to the Carroll County Home proved to be fun for the girls as well as the residents.

To retain membership the girls are required to serve on one committee and one or two projects each semester.

Varsity "D's" basketball coat check proved profitable.

Woven into the pattern at DCHS of extra-curricular activities is the Varsity "D" club. The "D" letter worn on sweaters and jackets denotes DCHS boys who have won major athletic awards. The purpose of this club is to encourage good sportsmanship among the athletes and an interest in all sports.

Those members not participating in the sport of the season could be found passing out programs and ushering fans at the home basketball games. Later in the year, members collected for the March of Dimes Drive and were great assistants at the annual Delphi Relays.

HI-Y'S MARCH OF DIMES SPREADS BROTHERHOOD

"To involve members in developing leadership, brotherhood, equality, and service, while increasing an awareness of oneself and the world."

"To create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, and community, high standards of Christian character."

In order to accomplish their goals Hi-Y collected money for the March of Dimes, donated money for the school sign and donated Christmas baskets to needy families.

A ring toss game at the Oracle-Fest proved to be both a popular and profitable attraction.

Applications for membership were made in the spring. Applicants must fit certain qualifications and be voted in by the club members.

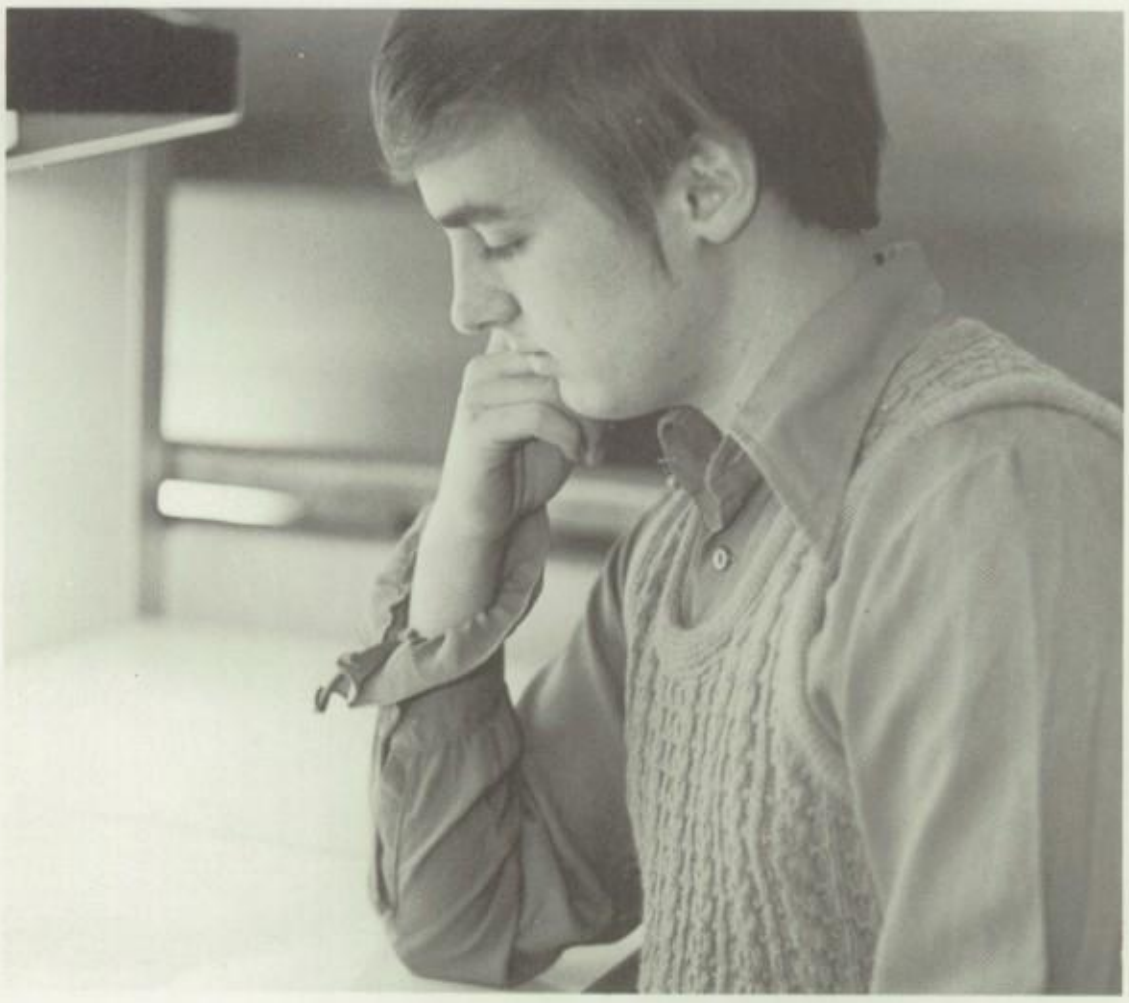
"STICK 'EM ON BANDAID" — COUNCIL



Jim Small, president of Student Council, reviews the council's constitution to point out needed amendments.

With the guiding lines of Student Council's sponsorship, and help from the entire student body through candy sales, DCHS saw the completion of the sign they had long awaited. Members of Student Council change the sign regularly to keep the community abreast of the upcoming activities.

Being the governing voice of the student body at DCHS, the Student Council tried to comply with student complaints. As a result we had music turned on in our hallways throughout the day. Looking ahead, the Student Council chose some of the convocations for the next school year.

"Which way America?" spurts from the mouths of Top Twenty as they vocally express their fellings of "America," the theme of "Tour of '72."

DCHS also had two other varied singing groups, the Delphettes and Boys' Barbershop Quartet.

The Delphettes, an all girls choir, were selected through auditions by vocal music director.

The Boys' Barber Shop Quartet, consisting of sophomore, Jim Green, 1st tenor; senior, Mike Smith, lead; freshman, Terry Broach, baritone; and junior, Jim Brubaker, bass, also performed at District and State Contests.

All groups showed an eagerness to sing and "voice" their emotions.

Those in Pep Band were always ready in a minute's notice to play. At half-time and between games, the band always would catch the crowd with its bouncy show tunes and provide lively and enjoyable entertainment.

Pom-Pon girls were often asked to perform on a moment's notice. The year was filled with weekly practices to prepare for performing at home football and basketball games.

The twirlers even though few in number, performed during football season with style and accuracy. Pom-Poners and twirlers marched in the Veteran's Day Parade in Logansport.

The score from "My Fair Lady" proved to be a challenge for those in stage band, but the tedious rehearsals paid off as the band was a great success.

The Delphi Community High School Band is one of many talents. In the fall, the band provided the football fans with an array of half time shows, including one at Frankfort. But marching doesn't halt at the football field. A trip to Logansport engaged the band in a Veteran's Day Parade.

In November, the Marching Show Band came inside and became the DCHS Concert Band. A Christmas Concert, Spring Concert, and NISBO-VA Contest highlighted the year's activities.

ATHLETICS

As the cheers go on,
so go our athletes.
whether defeat or victory
be our destination,
we go hand in hand
as a team.
Our opponents
learn our strengths
for our competitions.
From a dip in the pool to a cross country run wrestling, sprinting touchdown, first base free throw our heart and spirit becomes infinite.
Whether you cheer
or participate,
you experience the emotion.

HARRIERS TAKE OFF TO A RUNNING START

Gary Hathaway gets ready to run his six miles in preparation for a meet.

"If you have the will to win and the guts to be a winner, then you will have accomplished what you have set out to do." With these words from rookie coach Mike Miller, the Delphi harriers found new spark.

The harriers tended to play the middle of the road in the win-loss column, being strong at times and weak at others. But physical endurance, mental preparation, and a will to win was the name of the game. With this in mind Delphi's harriers produced a commendable record with twenty-nine wins and fifty-four losses. They closed the season with a third place finish in the Hoosier Conference.

Woven into our high school memories were lines black and gold. School spirit, colored by cheerleaders who worked, planned and accomplished, was revived with enthusiasm.

WINNING SEASON FOR DCHS GIVES COACHES,

Yates and Goslee break out of the run-through to open an evening of thrills and touchdowns.

In football memory stands this year's winning season to live on and on. Oh, what fans and teammates felt when the eighty yard punt return for a touchdown was successful.

The first game was played with many mistakes throughout the game. Watching films and going over plays were ways in which the team corrected and improved itself. After finishing the season with a 6-4 record, the team thought the practices were well worth their time. Sweat, fatigue, restrictions, and hard work were outweighed by pride, enthusiasm, and good times.

The men of the Black and Gold make a determined effort for extra yardage.

'72 FINDS THE ORACLES IN NEW QUARTERS

The squad had to develop the attitude of winning the game even before they left the dressing room.

The Oracles molded a solid foundation for themselves by going into the Jeff Sectional as underdogs and coming out as victors over the C. C. Knights.

The 1971-72 DCHS cagers fascinated the crowds with their victorious season.

Perhaps daily practices were not so commonplace after all. Despite the routine procedures of offense, defense, and its outcomes, the players were mentally and physically fit.

The Oracle Reserve Basketball team developed themselves into a fine working, close-knit squad to set a record of 13 wins and only 7 losses.

Highlighting the year's games was the Junior Varsity Tourney held during Christmas vacation at Logansport, where our Little Oracles beat West Lafayette. In the championship game, Delphi met Plymouth with the Oracles receiving a runner-up placing.

A quick Oracle manipulates the ball as the opponent moves in.

Greg Nipple decides it is time to try for the basket and raise the score for his team.

The 1972 Intramural sports program was developed in three areas: basketball, swimming, and wrestling. Those not participating in winter sports played on the Intramural teams. Six teams were chosen with captains. Mr. John Connelly, DCHS Industrial Arts Instructor, coached the teams.

The Intramural swimming team met once, and was coached by Mr. Abel Alvarez. Races and relays were conducted and trophies were awarded.

Mr. Bob Fellman held a one-night Intramural Wrestling match. Winners in each of the various weight classes were awarded with trophies.

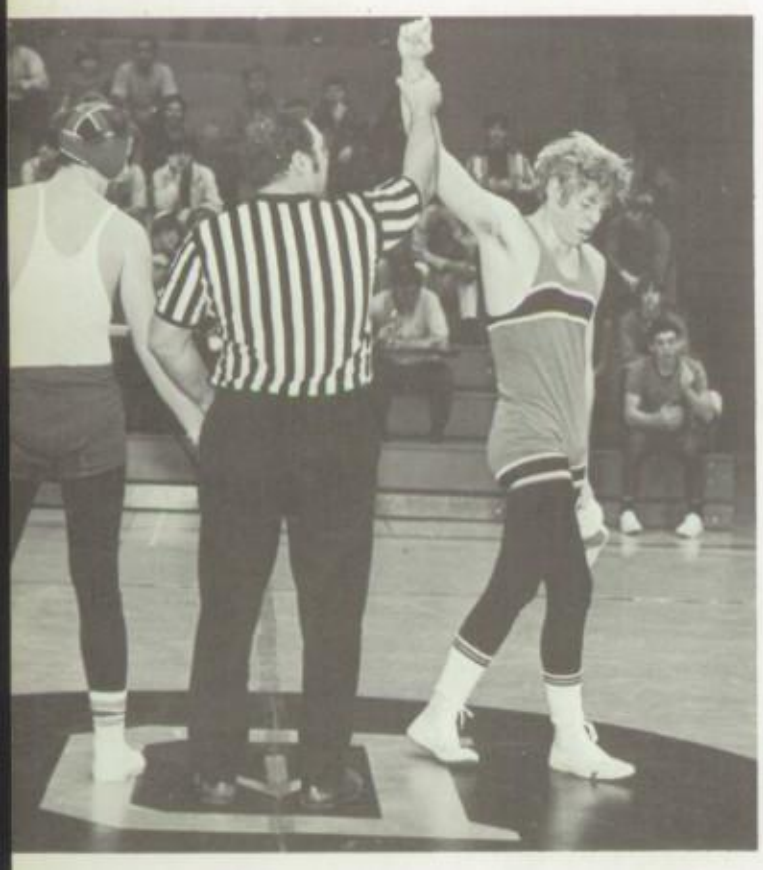
FOUST MASTERS MAT-MEN AT SECTIONAL TOURNEY



Dan Robertson is declared the winner.

Psyching themselves up for a match, not eating to make weight, working hard and long in practice, running sprints, and working out on the weight machine are just a few things the wrestlers went through to be in shape for the team.

BECOMING MORE INVOLVED IN AFFAIRS OF DCHS

SEATED: Mr. Bill Duff, Mrs. Mary Ferrier, Mr. Dale Fossnock, Mr. John Benner.
STANDING: Mr. Jim Sullivan, Mr. Lloyd Anderson, Mr. Charles Flora.

A nod, a smile, a handshake, or a greeting exchanged in the hall . . . this is the only glimpse most students ever receive of school board superintendent, Mr. Arthur Weddell.

The Board of School Trustees meets to discuss financial as well as educational matters.

All field trips must be cleared through the board as must be the purchase of any new equipment. The school board guides the schools in the distribution of funds and provides guidance toward a higher standard of education.

Mr. Arthur Weddell, "Our Man in Action."

SEATED: Mrs. Edith Berninger. STANDING: Mrs. Pauline Moore and Mrs. Rita Wingard.

Mrs. Polly Gratham, secretary to Mr. Jargstorff, takes a break to pose for pictures.

Looking up as he checks the attendance list, Vice-Principal Mr. Jargstorf smiles.

Secretary to Mr. Manahan, Mrs. Pat Lohrman, greets students with a friendly "Hello, can I help you."

MANAHAN STRIVES TO IMPROVE CURRICULUM

The visit of the North Central Evaluation Committee in the spring required many improvements in the curriculum of the school as well as the building itself. The main instrument in planning and preparing for these improvements was our principal, Mr. Garald Manahan.

Tasks, from the construction of a sidewalk from the top of the hill to the school, to making sure each club had a written constitution, kept Mr. Manahan busy.

Besides working toward acceptance by the North Central, Manahan performed such duties as meeting with teachers and the other principals in the corporation to plan and discuss innovations to make DCHS a more complete educational facility.

Mr. Manahan, DCHS principal, directs the tasks of organizing information for the N.C.E.

THE "GUIDING LIGHT" OF DCHS

Mrs. Janice Kamp and Mr. Robert Conner, DCHS guidance counselors.

Woven into each student's life were the guiding lines from our counselor's office. Every student met at least once with Mr. Conner and Mrs. Kamp for class scheduling while seniors came back for more serious talks about further education and job opportunities.

Students were glad to know they had these directing lines while they could still unravel and start again. We owe gratitude to our director for giving shape to our future. For, without his help the finished picture would be blurred.

Mrs. Doris Goslee, Guidance Department secretary, compiles records of past and present performances of the student's academic life.

College bound student, Connie Spitznaugle, talks over admissions with Mr. Conner, Guidance Director.

Choosing a direction in the dark, to stumble, fall, and get back up.
To daydream of the days to come,
knowing you'll have to come down from your cloud to reality.
Going out into our hassled society to find a job.
Good luck!
Deciding whether to serve
my country, my fellow man, or to serve myself.
Maybe I'll get married — to whom?
Where? When?
Decisions . . . we all have to decide for ourselves.
Which directions will you choose?

I can't believe I ate the WHOLE thing!

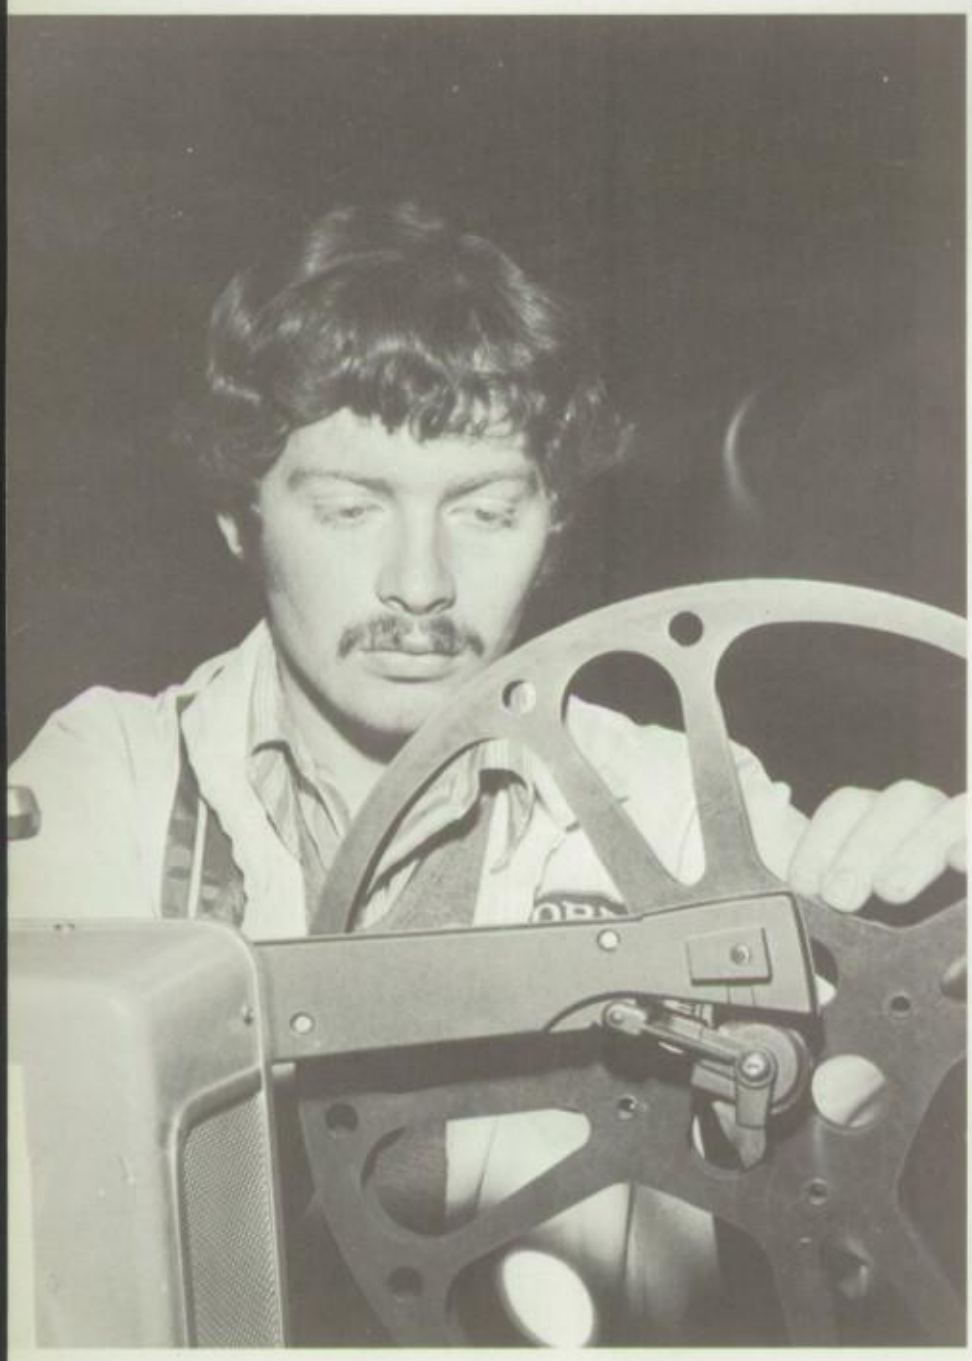
WORDS



JOURNAL CITIZEN

UNDERCLASSMEN SPEAK OUT IN STUDENT RELATIONS

AT LEFT: The "Taylor Sisters" add some humor to the Oracle-Fest.

BELOW: Brad Hankins sings a folk song which he wrote himself.

Each day a new challenge
a new idea
a new experience.
I'll grow. Climb. LIVE!
Away with the old and irrelevant.
Sure, man, sure.
Groovey, beautiful.
But wait
guy
chick.

First prepare MYSELF.
Investigate myself.
. . . as well as others.

Before I tear down . . .
I've got to learn
build a solid base . . .
. . . else all is lost.

Up, up, and Away.

A good game of chess keeps them out of trouble.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS: Secretary, Susie Stipp; President, Anita Clawson; Treasurer, Becky Newell; Vice-President, Harold Zink.

SMILE

Look around you, Juniors. You're about to enter a world of real decisions. What will you do with your life? SAT's, magazine sales, U.S. history, and that first BIG prom. Be prepared because '73 will be your last year as a DCHS student. Take with you the memories of friends, happenings, and special events. Prepare yourselves. Real opportunities come but once. Go, Juniors, go!

SOPHOMORES BUY AND SHARE CLASS RINGS.

Treasurer, Gail Young; Secretary, Terri Dickinson.

Vice-President, Mike Anderson; President, Phil Brummett.

Alas! One is a greenhorn no more. Now all are sophomores with a year of experience woven into the thread of life. Yet one still travels to the olden days in world history. The fabric of the year is colored by the variations of family trees and ITED tests. Weave into the intricate design of life the pleasures that come from the silver and gold of class rings and the sparkle of the fun of school happenings.

Beneath the surface of the present, woven threads raise new faces to fresh awakenings which at first appear only as illusions, but then are discovered to be realities beyond the wildest of fantasies . . . you're really at DCHS. Life marches on with each measured tread and each person learns to weave his own pattern . . . "do your own thing." Each becomes a part of the weft and the warp that really makes one part of the total picture.

With the completion of our book we'd like to say thanks to all the wonderful people who lent a helping hand. Thanks to Mr. Robert Politz, for cover design, Mr. Morris Buck, part-time advisor, Mr. Jerry Erb, photographer, and to the one person who we can't thank enough, Mr. Jack Sanders, our advisor. Those weeks without him seemed like forever. To the new editors and "J. S." we say, "Go get em!"
